

Translation:

Maple Syrup may help in the treatment of Neurodegenerative Alzheimer disease

Chennai, March18- A Seminar was organized by American Chemical Society for two days on preventing neurological diseases.

In this seminar, scientists from international arena participated and shared 24 positive research results that revealed the effects of natural products.

In particular, they discussed about Alzheimer disease. Dr. Sheela Krishnasamy says that that pure maple syrup extracts may prove to be useful in preventing the cell degeneration in brain due to alzheimer disease.